They have selfishly and supercillously sattended to their counting rooms and merchandise and permitted well meaning, but not well informed men to educate the people. oate the people.

Our immediate financial troubles, s

Our immediate financial troubles, and Mr Walker, are largely due to the fact that the revenues of the general government do not equal its expenditures by many millions per month and by the belief that the treasurer of the United States will find very great difficulty if he is even able to continue the redemption of United States legal tender notes in gold.

No banking system can by any possibility be safe under which the banks are required to keep their cash reserve in coin, the major part of it in gold coin and to redeem their notes; in coin. Not a dollar of gold has been paid into the treasury for customs or other dues for many mouths. The revenues are now being largely collected in aliver certificates which will embarrass the treasury much more than it they were paid in National bank obtes.

The roal facts in the case as to the proper way it which to issue currency are dawning up the minds of a large matter that no government that no g jority of the jeople, namely that no government can issue "good paper money" because a government is newssarily a consumer, a destroyer, a user up of wealth. The people are coming back to to the old and sound idea that only banks can issue "good money."

to the old and sound idea that only banks can leave "good money."

Mr. Walker lauggested that there are only two possible remedies for the financial lile: First, the issuing of a low rate bond to the aniount of $200,000,000 and taking up the whole $600,000,000 of legal tender notes including treneury notes with the proceeds, or, secondly, to remedied our national banking system so as to make at for the interest of the banks to assume proportionately; to the ourrency they are allowed to issue against their own assate, the current redemption of a new greenback which shall, during the life of the bank, be currently redeemed by the government.
